Hosted by Students of GWS 390: Feminism and Social Change

Mountains That Take Wing

6:00-8:00pm at the Latino Cultural Center (B2)
803 S. Morgan St. Chicago, IL

Internationally renowned scholar and activist, Angela Davis, and grassroots organizer and Nobel Peace Prize nominee, Yuri Kochiyama, dialogue for 13 years about their overlapping experiences, connected struggles, and long friendship. The film honors the scope and depth of their knowledge on issues ranging from Jim Crow laws and Japanese American internment camps, to Civil Rights, anti-war, women's and gay liberation movements, to contemporary campaigns for political prisoners and prison reform.

This is two of four films in the series. For any questions on Direct Action: A Feminist Film Series, please contact Dr. Sekile Nzinga-Johnson at sekile3@uic.edu.
