Med School Insider

Monday, May 2 at 7:00 pm CT

Getting into medical school is tough - less than half the students who apply are accepted. With application season right around the corner, it pays to know what admissions committees think when they look at your essays, transcripts, and test scores.

Join us for an inside look at medical school admissions in this special live event, in which an expert panel - including deans of admission from prominent medical schools and experts on medical education - will explain how the different pieces of an application are evaluated to decide who gets accepted and who gets rejected.
