

MODEL BEHAVIOR COMMUNITY DIALOGUE AND WORKSHOP

Model Behavior is a workshop designed for LGBTQ-identified people to recognize unhealthy and abusive behaviors in relationships. We will work together to discuss patterns of harmful and abusive behaviors in our own, past or current, relationships and within LGBTQ+ communities. We will also create individual relationship intentions to help with self-empowerment and setting boundaries with current and future partners. This workshop will be facilitated by Sarah Bernstein and Keisa Reynolds.

Sarah Bernstein is a queer femme sexuality educator and community activist. They currently work at the Illinois Caucus for Adolescent Health (ICAH) and are the founder of Chicago's Adult Sex Ed. Groups, sexuality education workshops centering queer and trans people's sexualities. Keisa Reynolds is a queer Black feminist writer and educator based in Chicago. They are the program coordinator at WLRC/CAN.

Participants arriving later can join as they please during the second half starting at 1pm. RSVPs are not required but there is limited capacity.*

OCTOBER IS

domestic violence
awareness month

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month!

The goal of DVAM is to raise awareness of the prevalence of domestic violence, create a culture of support for survivors, and encourage bystanders to intervene with perpetrators.

WLRC/CAN hosts programming during DVAM and throughout the year. For a full list of our events visit can.uic.edu or wlrc.uic.edu
