

Institute for Research on Race & Public Policy

Embodied Inequality Series

Health Humanities Program
Department of Medical Education
College of Medicine
Begando Lecture

Dayna Matthew

Just Medicine: A cure for racial inequality in American health care

Thurs., February 23, 2017 • Moss Auditorium, COMRB
4:00 - 5:30 pm • 909 S. Wolcott, Chicago, IL
Reception following the event

RSVP rvilor1@uic.edu or irrpp.uic.edu • For disability accommodations, please email Bhargavi Dhanireddy bdhani3@uic.edu

About the Talk

Dayna Bowen Matthew is Professor at University of Colorado Law School and the School of Public Health. She is co-founder of the Colorado Health Equity Project, a medical legal partnership whose mission is to remove barriers to good health for low-income clients.

This talk will focus on evidence-based legal remedies that accurately address implicit and unintentional forms of discrimination in order to eradicate health disparities from the American health care system.

About the Series

Embodied Inequality: Unpacking the Impact of Race & Racism on Health builds on important work documenting extensive health disparities. This inter-disciplinary lecture series explores why race is so consequential for health outcomes and how scholars, practitioners, and community groups can intervene to improve health outcomes for vulnerable communities.

Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy

Center of Excellence in Maternal and Child Health

INSTITUTE FOR HEALTH RESEARCH AND POLICY

MEDICAL EDUCATION
COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

OFFICE OF
THE VICE CHANCELLOR
FOR HEALTH AFFAIRS

UIC DIVERSITY

